

THE MYTH ABOUT GREEN ENERGY

The entire world is still dependent on coal, oil and gas for 84% of its energy needs. These fossil fuels account for 97% of all transportation energy. In 20 years, our reliance on fossil fuels decreased by a mere 2%, so where's the damage to the environment saved or benefit accrued from the green energy brigade in the world?

In two decades, these proponents of green energy spent $5 trillion and made a very small difference on our reliance on fossil fuels. Former US presidential hopeful, Al Gore made lots of money pushing his green energy agenda, achieving nothing.

Robert JFK did more to protect the environment by investigating big companies for polluting the atmosphere and rivers than the entire crew behind the green energy agenda.

Green energy requires minerals we don't have enough of. To obtain these minerals, mining efforts will have to increase by 1000 times according to a leading physicist. If he is right, then, the huge mining costs are going to push up the cost of living to unsustainable levels and make worldwide starvation the biggest problem of our time.

Alternative sources of energy only contribute to about 2% of the world's energy, so what's the big woo-ha about going green for so little benefit at such huge costs? The minerals needed to go completely green include: copper, zinc, lithium, cobalt, iron, graphite and rare earth minerals like neodymium.

Raw materials account for 50% to 70% of the cost of batteries, so where is the cost saving. To add to our misery, these batteries and solar panels are indestructible, adding to the pollution. Have we gone mad?.

America is 100% dependent on China for 17 of its essential minerals. What a way for a world power to become enslaved to China, its number one enemy in global politics. No wonder, Janet Ellen went on a trip to patch things up with China. America, according to Ellen, needs the goods, like the iPhone, that America can't produce. Is this the reason no sanctions were imposed on China for trading with Russia? What double standards!

Mining for these minerals in America is impossible due to opposition from the strong environmentalist lobby in the US, so Africa is the place that the West will exploit, as they have been doing in the past four centuries.

The cobalt in all the smart phones comes from the mines in the Congo, owned by companies from the West. The mining is done by children under utterly squalid and unhealthy conditions. These children are paid starvation wages for sacrificing their lives to extract the precious metal from the inhospitable bowels of the earth and no one, says a word about it.

The current thrust on AI, using robots to perform every task is going to push the demand for energy to exponential levels.

Robotic energy demand will come from denying human beings the right to cheap energy so they will have to freeze to death in the harsh winters in the northern hemisphere, unless they all decide to migrate to warmer Africa.

Our energy requirements for the future will rise dramatically not because of an increase in the population but because of rapidly growing innovations that will guzzle all the energy available. The irony is that while the West will clamour for these innovations, citizens in Africa, where the minerals are mined, will be struggling to stay alive.

South Africa has adequate coal reserves not to rely on the rest of the world for its energy requirements, so I fail to see why we are pursuing an unaffordable green energy alternative that can result very little benefit to the economy and be of little benefit to the masses of citizens of this in this country.

We have corrupt people in charge of our country.

If green energy was such a big issue, why was Europe one of the biggest importers of coal during their severe winter.

Like typical colonialists, they do as they please in their countries but want to be our masters in Africa and Asia.

The internet cloud uses twice the energy used by the entire nation of Japan, the third largest economy in the world.

The electric vehicle industry in China is failing before it could take off. Eight of the 10 companies in China that produce EVs are going bust.

The US and EU are the biggest polluters. They have 80 cars for every 100 people when the poor countries have 5 cars for every 100 people, yet the west has the audacity to blame Africa for polluting the environment.

There are far more people jetting to the east from the west for vacation and business than the other way around because of the artificially inflated value of paper currencies like the dollar and pound, which are not backed by gold.

The west has used its energy to produce fuel guzzling weapons of destruction, while the east has used its energy to produce consumer goods for the west and the rest of the world.

We are yet to estimate the damage done to the environment during the two year war in Ukraine using surplus weapons from the US and EU to fuel this war.

Africa, with the largest arable land, can produce sufficient food for the world but because much of its land is either foreign owned or poorly farmed, Africa has become the world's begging bowl for food. This situation needs to be urgently reversed.

The abundance of technological know-how in the fields of science, food, engineering and medicine in Asia, Africa and South America begs the question: why do these countries need to rely on the west, Bill Gate's GMO poisen vaccines and deadly GMO foods?

The Imperialistic hold that the West wishes to retain over Africa, Asia and South America must come to a swift end. We do not need captured organisations like the WHO and UN in our lives.

We need to achieve our independence by trading with like minded nations on mutually agreeable civil terms.

If each of these countries in the East, Africa and South America can become self-sufficient, there would be no need for their citizens to emigrate to the West and EU through dinghy boats and end up slaves in these countries, living in ghettos as second class citizens.

Why do we need to accept the UN's vision of locking people in tall buildings by doing away with single dwelling homes? This is an abuse of our constitutional rights by a group of people, who live in huge mansions and travel in their private jets, polluting the air without giving two hoots about the environment.

We don't need eugenics to control the population. We could embark on serious family planning legislation like it was done in China and India in the past. This is a necessity if we wish to control social evils like crime, poverty, unemployment and hunger that are the direct result of overpopulation.

If the current excess death rate in the heavily vaxxed countries continues unabated, which I am sure it will, then there will be a huge demand for immigrants to the west from the pure bloods in Africa and Asia to keep Western countries alive.

These pure bloods from Asia and Africa might end up becoming the major workforce in the Western world. If that happens, we may no longer be speaking of east and west. Sounds rather utopian but quite possible.

If this happens, mad and egocentric Gates and his motley crew from the WEF, won't be around to change the tide of events.

What the world needs now is a socialist democratic type of government, where the wealth would be widely spread to everyone by putting a total end to super rich families and individuals like the Rothschilds, Rockefellers, Soros's, Gates, Musk and Bezos.

The elected governments must abide by the constitution that respects individual rights and freedoms.

We need governments that listen to the electorate and not the other way around like it has been in Canada, Australia, France, Germany and New Zealand during the Covid pandemic.

The healthcare systems throughout the world need to be urgently overhauled.

The members of the WEF and big pharmaceutical corporate companies have taken over the WHO and the UN to dictate to the rest of the world on their health policies.

The once noble health care profession was wickedly taken over by money hungry investors, pharmaceutical companies and investment houses, which turned healthcare into money making machines.

The final decision to treat patients was wrenched out of the hands of medical professionals and placed in the hands of medical boards run by corrupt accountants and corrupt professors.

The corrupt professors, who took charge of writing up the policy to manage Covid were supported by the corrupt mainstream media and once reputable medical journals .

Doctors, who dared to speak the truth were labelled conspiracy theorists, fired from their jobs or ended up dying mysteriously, while the captured citizens of the world watched silently doing nothing about the dastardly abuse.

The world has become a much worse place to live in during the last three years of the Covid scam, not because of Covid but because of the Evil corrupt policies of lock-downs and forced failed vaccinations that was foisted on helpless citizens by democratic leaders that behaved worse than the worst despots in the history of the world.

It's time for the citizens of the world to become aware of the war that was waged on them by so few; it's time to save our world from the corrupt few for the future of our children for generations to come.

Now is the time!

Reflections on how we degenerated to such low levels of morality in just three years.
